National Seminar on Police Reforms: Initiatives and Impediments (February 27-28, 2016)

Department of Public Administration, Mohanlal Sukhadia University, Udaipur (Raj.) is going to organize a two days' 'National Seminar on Police Reforms: Initiatives and Impediments' on February 27-28, 2016. The police system in India is largely characterized by its colonial legacy and cruel image and still the Indian police are not found democratic, accountable, efficient, friendly and responsive. A large number of commissions and committees have been constituted by union and state governments in last seven decades however the speed and scope of police reforms is far beyond public expectations.

The present seminar is an academic effort to underline the basic politico- administrative, judicial and socio-economic factors affecting the working and image of Indian police and to suggest practical plan of action to reform the police system.

Sub- themes of the seminar-

1. Structural, functional, legal and behavioral aspects of police reforms in India.
  2. Judicial reforms vis-à-vis police effectiveness.
  3. Prison reforms.
  4. Terrorism, left extremism and human rights.
  5. Democratization of Indian police.
  6. Community policing.
